A Community Risk Assessment of the 90062 Zip Code Lauren Collins 2009 Abstract: The purpose of this study was to complete a community risk assessment of the 90062 zip code area of Los Angeles, California using the Communities That Care model. In order to evaluate the factors most likely to place 90062 youth at greater risk for school dropout and teen pregnancy, 23 risk factor indicators were accessed from multiple public sources to compare and contrast the status of 90062 with the city of Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California, and the United States on 13 empirically-supported risk factors. The results of the assessment within the community, family, school, and peer/individual domains were then used to prioritize the most salient risk factors that need to be addressed in prevention programs developed for 90062. The risk factors to be of most concern for 90062 were extreme economic deprivation, family management, academic failure, and early initiation. Implications for social work practice, directions for future research, and limitations are addressed.

Tables of IGY Monthly Median Ionospheric Data W. J. G. Beynon 2013-10-22 Annals of the International Geophysical Year, Volume 14: Tables of IGY Monthly Median Ionospheric Data is the second of five volumes of I.G.Y. data containing tables of monthly median values of ionospheric characteristics for the period July 1957-January 1959 inclusive. The data are extracted from booklets, bulletins and data summaries of many kinds which have been prepared at ionospheric observatories and sent to one of the Discipline V World Data Centers at Boulder, Moscow, Slough, and Tokyo. This volume is composed of 27 chapters representing the stations, which are arranged in alphabetical order. The tables for each station are preceded by some of the more important information relating to the station. This information is taken from the Ionospheric Stations Manual (U.S.R.I., 1958) that also contains hourly values of cos X and many other useful data. Both the U.R.S.I, three letter code and the C.S.A.G.I. number have been included in the tables to facilitate reference either to the Ionospheric Stations Manual or to Annals of the I.G.Y. Volume VII. This book will be of value to geophysicists, researchers, and workers in the allied fields.
